

that week we completed some functionality as showing ratings and send rate now we getProduct with its

- main info

- comments

- rating which user already send (if user logged)

In Index.html link "read more" has been changed to form with post method it sends userId from localStorage (which has saved after logging in)

After that backend gets userId from form to check its given rating to that product

Shows already sent rating (of the user) with some js code in Product Page shows its rate as stars.

filtering by price and rating works well as commenting and rating there left some thing to complete the project
